Rangers Face New Responsibilities

Brazil's Military Police Cadets Visit

In July, cadets from the "Barro Branco" Military Police Lieutenants Academy of São Paulo, Brazil met with the Texas Rangers and visited the Texas Ranger Hall of Fame in Waco. Their trip is part of the International Law Enforcement Cultural and Technical Interchange Program organized by police Chief Michael Horak of Eastfield College in Dallas.

Brazil, famed for its beaches and culture, is wracked by poverty, drugs and gangs. Murder rates are up to 1,370% above those in the U.S. The state of São Paulo has a population of 44 million. The Military Police works with the civil police in escort, patrol, intelligence and interdiction duties. It is very high risk – on average an officer is killed every 4.5 days.

News, Guns & Motorsports

The Museum was first featured on News, Guns & Motorsports in June in a series of three episodes.

On July 3rd, Johnny Rowland interviewed Scott "Rowdy" Bundy, of the Texas Top Guns, a group of Texas history reenactors, who partner with the museum during our annual Spring Break Round Up and Summer Camp.

On July 20th, Rowland interviewed Byron Johnson, Executive Director, about the guns of the 19th Century Rangers and about the transition from cap and ball to cartridge ammo.

News, Guns & Motorsports is a radio show and commentary about current events, guns and shooting and firearms issues, automotive and motorsports features, and special music presentations.

While in Waco, the cadets studied pistol and rifle proficiency with Texas Ranger Special Response Team members Jim Hatfield, Jr. and Gary Phillips. The Rangers presented them with challenge coins. They learned about the expanding role of the Texas Rangers on the Mexican border and the museum staff introduced them to Texas Ranger history.

The cadets were quite moved at how well they were treated during their visit and how respected law enforcement personnel are treated in the United States and Texas. The museum is delighted that we could make their trip more memorable.

Gunfighterology: Frontier Gunfighters and Shootouts

On Saturday, August 1, the Texas Ranger Hall of Fame and Museum hosted "Gunfighterology: Frontier Gunfighters and Shootouts," a presentation by Dr. Bill O'Neal, State Historian of Texas.

With more than 300 people in attendance, the presentation began with a brief history on firearms technology by retired Austin Police Department Lieutenant and author Doug Dukes. Author Bob Alexander, emcee of the program, then turned the show over to O'Neal, who regaled the audience with colorful accounts of some of most daring gunfights of the Nineteenth Century. In all, O'Neal has authenticated a total of 590 gunfights in the Old West. Of these gunfights, 408 were fatal fights, 638 people (criminals, law officers and bystanders) lost their lives and only 182 fights had no fatalities. Afterwards, O'Neal and Alexander autographed copies of their books for attendees.
